

Kevin the worry chip

By Zac Moreillon and illustrated By Zac Moreillon

Kevin the worry chip

Once upon a time there was a chip could Kevin, he was a worry chip. All the other chips were happy chips. so Kevin wished he was a warrior chip. So Kevin went on a journey to find the sword of destiny. But there are dangerous things that are terr-efing But he will try to be brave. So he went..

off. When he reached the first enemy he was scared. But he knew he could be brave. This was the first dragon, but it was not that strong though. Kevin hit the dragon with his fierce sword. Then the dragon blew fire out of its mouth. Then Kevin flung his shield in front of him and blocked the fire. Then he quickly dashed and hit the...

dragon. The dragon was defeated. Only two more dragons two defeat, said Kevin. He started to walk. When he reached the second dragon he was braver than ever he knows can do it. He ducked when the dragon blew fire at him. He jumped and strucked the dragon as hard as he could. Kevin started...

Running so fast around the dragon that the dragon got so dizzy. Kevin destroyed the second dragon. He started walking again. Then he saw the last dragon, he rose his powerful sword. They were ready to fight. Kevin shot up and struck the dragon. The dragon blew fire at Kevin, but Kevin stopped the fire and it blew back at the dragon. And the dragon was defeated.

Then Kevin saw the sword of destiny.
He was a great warrior chip. When he got home he showed all the happy chips the sword of destiny. When he thought in bed he felt Brave and he didn't want to keep the sword so he decided ~~to~~ not keep the sword. The end

Kevin the worry chip

when Kevin wants to be a warrior he needs to get the sword of destiny.

the sword of
destiny

