Zombies Ate My Homework!!!!!

Chapter #1 The Story

Everyone knows the phrase "the dog ate my homework" but I'm going to tell you about a time where people said "Zombies ate my homework!!"
They say this because in the town of Cokadoodle weird things are very likely to happen because Cokadoodle is a weird town.

Chapter #2 The Beginning

One day a Scientist tried to bring the dead back to life because they had just finished a invention that was programed to make dead people living again. He was also only in college so he had homework and that would save his life. Everything was going good until the invention malfunctioned and made a whole graveyard of zombies!! The zombies attacked the scientist and almost ate his brains until he threw his homework at the zombies and then instead of saying brains they said, "homework."

Chapter #3 Zombie Invasion

Once the zombies ate all the scientist's homework they went to the town of Cokadoodle because of all the towns they had to choose the one that had just fought a bunch of aliens. The schools had first seen the zombies and thought, "oh come on." The kids were weirdly excited when the zombies came because they wanted to test out the hats they had just made out of tinfoil. When the heard that the zombies only ate homework they were happy and disappointed because I mean no more homework.

Chapter #4 Communication

Once the military heard about the zombies eating homework they did nothing because its just homework. A little 5th grade kid named Bob liked homework so he did something incredible. The kid put on his tinfoil hat but this was no ordinary tinfoil hat this hat allowed Bob to talk to the homework eating zombies and this is what he said, "why are you eating my homework?" The zombies said, "we are eating your homework because it helps us learn your language so we can talk to more than one human."

Chapter #5 The News

Once Bob heard what the zombies said he told everyone. They didn't believe him because they thought that oh yeah zombies can't talk. Why would the zombies want to talk to us. Bob did not let this stop him he was a big genius. He found a way to transfer what he heard the zombies say to a big machine. That same machine was able to transfer what had just been put on it to every screen in Cokadoodle. Once this happened everyone believed Bob.

Chapter#6 Betrayed

Once everyone started to believe that the zombies were nice and were not evil the zombies betrayed them and started to try and eat brains. That is when things got interesting Bob went up to the leader and turned into a ZOMBIE!! After that Bob said, "you fools I have been spying on you for years even when the aliens were here." Then a guy named Jim went up to him and punched him in the face.

!!!Final Chapter!!! Aliens

Now that Jim was there the people of Cokadoodle were safer. Everyone loved Jim but they didn't know that he was secretly a good alien from the planet pluto. Since nobody has been on pluto it's a secret place for good aliens to run away to. Those good aliens were the reason for the other aliens to attack Cokadoodle in the first place. They owed the people a favor so they took all the zombies away and exterminated them once and for all.

The End